

The Future of Digital Business

Karin Spindler-Simader

Consultant, Wolf Theiss

Curriculum Vitae

Karin Spindler-Simader is a member of the tax team. She specializes in corporate tax law and tax aspects of reorganizations, international tax planning as well as international and European tax law. Karin is admitted as a tax adviser with years of experience as an authorized signatory in leading tax consulting firms and is experienced in providing tax advice on complex international M&A transactions. Prior to working in tax consulting, she was a research and teaching assistant at the Institute for Austrian and International Tax Law at the Vienna University of Economics and Business where she continues to teach. Karin has authored numerous professional publications and regularly lectures on tax related topics. She holds a doctorate in economics and business and a bachelor's degree in business law. She is also a member of the International Fiscal Association (IFA).

Topic

Are we entering a new era in international taxation? New tax rules for the digital economy and beyond.

"At the end of 2021, 137 countries of the world have come to a 'new global tax agreement' that seeks to re-allocate the profit of multinational enterprises and subject them to a minimum tax rate of 15%."

Wolf Theiss