

Wolf Theiss Appoints Leonhard Wassiq as Chief Digital & Technology Officer

Vienna, 30 January 2024 – Effective immediately, Leonhard Wassiq assumes the role of Chief Digital & Technology Officer (CDTO) at Wolf Theiss. He will be responsible for the advancement and implementation of digitalisation and technology strategies in Austria and the CEE/SEE region.

Leonhard Wassiq brings extensive experience in data management, artificial intelligence and digital transformation to his new role. Driving digitalisation and technology at Wolf Theiss. Mr. Wassiq has a background in leading international technology companies, including A1 Telekom Austria AG and AT&S. Additionally, he has been responsible for digitalisation projects in the public health sector. His appointment reflects Wolf Theiss's commitment to technological leadership in the legal field.

"As part of Wolf Theiss, I look forward to implementing data- and technology-based solutions that will not only enhance internal efficiency but also significantly contribute to the quality of client service," stated Leonhard Wassiq. "Wolf Theiss aims to set new standards in the legal industry as a digitally and technologically advanced firm, a goal to which I am eager to contribute."

"Leonhard Wassiq's vision of an integrated, data-driven, and technology-focused approach aligns with our concept of successful legal counsel," said Andrea Gritsch, Managing Partner. "With his support, we will further refine our processes and offer even better service to our clients."

Mr. Wassiq will immediately take charge of the newly established "Digital, Data and Technology" department, which will include the Data Governance Office and the Legal Tech Team. He will focus on driving automation and the use of AI technologies across all business areas, further advancing Wolf Theiss in its digital transformation journey.
